

Jacob Coppage-Gross

Radnor High School - Radnor, PA

“Jacob’s mother and I are Siemens employees and we are both proud of him for earning this scholarship and grateful to Siemens for providing the resources to support this Scholarship Program. The recognition of his and other student’s academic talent is a wonderful way for Siemens to give to its employees and financially assist with their children’s education.”

"My daughter, Lorraine, and I are honored that she is the recipient of a Siemens National Merit Scholarship. Obviously I'm very proud of her. But I'm also proud to be employed by a company that recognizes and rewards our children's accomplishments. It's important to me and my family that Siemens supports the values of hard work, intellectual rigor and academic excellence in our young people."

Sarah Guyer

Conestoga High School - Berwyn, PA

“My husband and I are very proud of our daughter Sarah for winning the Siemens National Merit Scholarship. It is an honor for her to be recognized as part of this group of extremely accomplished students. This very generous scholarship is a tremendous financial help to our family. I am proud to work for a company that feels it is valuable to recognize the achievements of its employees' children.”

Kayla Safran

Northern Valley Regional High School - Demarest, NJ

"It's a great feeling knowing that the company I work for recognizes my family as a whole, and not just the time I put in as an employee. It was with great pride that I heard Siemens name being mentioned at the senior awards ceremony at my daughter's high school in recognition of her receiving the National Merit Scholarship."

The Siemens Merit Scholarship was truly a godsend for our family as in-state scholarship money at public institutions is harder to obtain. The fact that Siemens recognizes the academic achievement of students with several prestigious awards is a testament to their spirit of community involvement and their willingness to help out the families of their employees beyond paychecks and other employee benefits. For families struggling to pay for college education, the financial assistance from the scholarship is certainly wonderful. However, the scholarship goes beyond that. It also validates all the hard work that students have put forth striving for a good education while balancing academics with work, extracurricular activities and community involvement. For Siemens to honor them, it also shows how much Siemens values their own employees. And this could potentially lead students to consider Siemens as a company they would like to work for in the future. We are very grateful our daughter was a recipient of this award and commend her on her achievement while thanking Siemens for its generosity.

“Without support by corporations like Siemens there would be fewer scholarships awarded, and the financial burden for college education would fall more fully on the parents and children. Our family greatly appreciates the help provided by Siemens and we wish more businesses would become involved in the same way.”

“It tremendously satisfying to us, as it is for all parents, when our children are recognized for their achievements. Of course, we are proud of what our son Adam has accomplished in the classroom. We are equally proud to be associated with a company like Siemens that has made such a special commitment to recognize and reward the children of its employees through the Siemens Merit Scholarship program. Thank you, Siemens.”

Edward Zheng

Lawrenceville School - Lawrenceville, NJ

I was so happy and appreciative to learn that my son, Edward Zheng, was selected as a recipient of the Siemens Merit Scholarship. Edward will attend Princeton University next month and this generous Scholarship from Siemens will significantly reduce his work-study requirement which allows him to focus more on the most important aspect of college, learning. This Scholarship will inspire him to work even harder and one day will be able to give back to the community. It also makes me so proud to be a Siemens employee.
